New Frontier Partners with NAG Inc. to Build Data Platform – Equio™

Washington – New Frontier, the leading Big Data provider in the cannabis industry, is announcing a strategic partnership with NAG Inc., a leading industry solution developer. NAG has been integral in the highly anticipated launch of New Frontier’s full online data analytics platform, equio™.

“Equio is going to revolutionize the cannabis industry with its state-of-art geospatial mapping tools and consumer data tools that allow users to take a deep dive into information that is critical to the sector. NAG’s years of experience working with this kind of interface provided invaluable expertise in helping to build our vision,” said Giadha DeCarcer, CEO and founder of New Frontier.

NAG Inc. provides the visualization and mapping analytics that turn our data into visually digestible intelligence for our data dashboard. NAG’s geospatial tools have been utilized by premier organizations such as NASA and Google, among others. Now, they are combining their technology with New Frontier’s to bring real-time information to the cannabis sector.

"We at NAG are excited at the opportunity to work with New Frontier on developing the complex real-time data management and visualization solutions for their customers" Swapan Nag, CEO NAG, Inc.
